Town will rethink bus garage site

BY VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Town council met with Fire Chief Ken Palamarek and Lyle Frisby at last week's regular meeting, and heard the fire department's concerns with the town and county's plans to build a garage immediately adjacent to the fire hall to house the community handi-bus.

"We have the nicest fire hall in northeast Alberta, but that doesn't negate expansion," the fire chief said, explaining that a location adjacent to the hall would give the department no room to expand when the need arises.

"Our biggest concern would be parking clutter like we had in the old fire hall," he added. The size of the previous hall made it necessary to line up trucks and move one to get another out, he said. With all bays of the current facility currently occupied, if another fire truck was added to the roster, it could mean adding another bay to accommodate it.

Another concern, Palamarek said, would be that another structure that close to the fire hall would create an unsafe condition, and "It would be most embarrassing to have the fire hall burn and not be able to fight it."

The fire chief suggested three alternate locations, one immediately south of the unit's current parking spot near Heritage Lodge, one in the EcoCentre parking lot and one in the area of the town shop.

"One of the reasons we wanted to build there was the money," Mayor ParrishTung said, adding that of the garage was built adjacent to the fire hall and hooked into its power supply, the town and county would pay for the electricity.

Pengrowth outlines projects at open house

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Pengrowth Energy Corporation outlined the scope of their thermal heavy oil project in the Lindbergh oilfield at open houses at Flat Lake, Elk Point and Ferguson Flats this past week, with an additional open house scheduled for Bonnyville this Thursday.

Pengrowth's leases in the area were purchased from Murphy Oil and include 33 sections in the Lindbergh area and 10 sections in the Muriel Lake area.

Pengrowth undertook a pilot project in 2012, and began steam injection in two well pairs in February of that year, with results outperforming the company's expectations. The results led the company to proceed with plans for the first phase of a commercial project, which is expected to yield 12,500 barrels per day.

Their regulatory application was submitted in late 2011 for a steam assisted gravity drainage (SAGD) project involving 23 well pairs, with that application approved in July of 2013. Construction started last August, with completion and the first steam expected in the last quarter of this year, ramping up to full production by the second quarter of next year.

Council

The Heritage Lodge Auxiliary, which pays for the van's operation, operates on a shoestring budget and could not afford $150 per month for a separate power supply, he noted, with electricity necessary to plug in the van and operate the garage door. The garage, he noted, would be cost shared by the town and county, but the town bears the cost of upkeep on the van, which up to now "has been at the mercy of the weather."

Council debated those alternate sites later in the meeting. The current site belongs to Alberta Health and would therefore be unavailable, the second location is leased by the town from North East MuniCorr and would not be an acceptable development for that site, and the third, while available, would be inconvenient for the most frequent user, the Lodge activity director, to access.

However, discussion led to another possible site: town-owned land between the fire hall property and the land owned by Esso. Town manager Myron Goyan was asked to bring the site plan of that property to council's next meeting and to research power supply options.

Wild Pink Yonder

Coun. Capjack handed around a summary of plans for the visit of the Wild Pink Yonder trail ride on Aug. 15 and asked council for approval of a maximum $1,000 budget, which she feels will more than cover the cost of providing the visitors with supper and breakfast during their overnight stay. Fundraisers, including donation cans in local businesses and a raffle of 'pink' items at the Elk Point Horticulture and Craft Show, will be held to gather a donation to be presented to the riders in their quest for a cue for breast cancer.

Emergency management

Mayor Tung reported that he had attended a meeting on the Regional Emergency Management Pilot and is looking forward to further developments. Elk Point needs another elected official on the committee and councillors have a few weeks to decide if they wish to take part. "This is the most efficient way of looking after our residents," the mayor said, regarding the project.

The project will be funded by a Alberta Community Partnership grant involving the town and County of St. Paul, the town of Elk Point, and the summer village of Horseshoe Bay. It will have a part time director to do assessments, appraisals, practices and updates, Mayor Tung said. "The whole council will be involved in the planning. It is our mandate to look after our residents."

Flower power

Coun. Lorne Young asked that the matter of flowers be placed on the upcoming Public Works Committee agenda. "If this is the public's concern, I want to bring it forward. If not this year, I want to position us to do it next year," he said.

Ratepayer input needed on town's tax incentive program

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Elk Point town councillors are already getting some feedback on council's tentative plans to phase out the tax incentive program, which Coun. Lorne Young told council at last week's meeting, amounts to "significant dollars. Taxes are relevant in people's minds, and (the absence of the incentives) could have saved them money." He added that if council does implement the change, "we need to give them plenty of notice. I like the phasing out."

Coun. Debra McQuinn agreed. Coun. Dwayne Yaremkevich felt the incentives have served their purpose and is in favour of the three-year phasing out, and while Coun. Bernice Capjack feels it should be phased out, she suggested it could end at the end of 2015 instead of 2016.

With the town's current inventory of unsold lots, Coun. Young noted, "If the pending sales all go through, we'll be down to three industrial lots. If we want to differentiate, we could remove the incentive on those and leave it on the residential lots for longer."

Goyan provided council with a rundown of the town's tax history from 1997, when assessment totaled $42,272,130, to the present year, when that figure more than tripled to $155,686,120. Over that same time period, residential taxes dropped from 19.537 mills to 9.996 mills, fourplexes and condos from 32.958 mills to 9,996 mill and improved non-residential property from 31.506 mills to 22.500 mills, with vacant non-residential property decreasing the least, from 26.774 mills to 24.794 mills.

"If there had been no new building, taxes would have gone up significantly," the mayor noted, adding that residential property makes up about one quartet of the tax base.

A decision on the phasing out or discontinuation will be made in June, and in the meantime, the public is invited to talk to the mayor and councillors and give their reactions to the change. "We would like to hear from them before we make a decision," the mayor said.

Displays and knowledgeable personnel explained Pengrowth's new project.

Pengrowth

The additional expansion included adding more equipment on the existing footprint, expanding the facility's co-generation electric generation system, ad adding four well pairs that were tied into the existing infrastructure. The well pairs are located on five pad sites close to the central processing facility (CPF), with construction and operations camps nearby, all within the area formerly occupied by the Murphy Oil plant.

Pengrowth is already planning for Stage Two, which add 32 additional wells and will bring production to 30,000 barrels per day. The regulatory application was submitted late in 2013, with approval expected to come in late 2014 or early 2015. Engineering will take approximately two years, with construction slated for early 2016, and the first steam planned for the first quarter of 2017, ramping up to full production three to six months later.

The open house addressed air, health and noise concerns in the area, outlining what measures will be taken to ensure compliance with regulations.

Water is a big consideration in a project of this magnitude, and Pengrowth is required to recycle 90 per cent or more of their produced water. What cannot be recycled will be released into an onsite disposal well.

The SAGD process involves boiling water to create steam, and injecting that steam into the wells to heat up the oil in the reservoir, making it easier to bring to the surface. The steam condenses into water as it cools and is pumped back to the surface with the oil. A comprehensive treating system separates the water from the oil, and the recycling of this water significantly reduces the water needed from the source. Water to top up the reservoir and offset water losses from the water treatment process comes from the North Saskatchewan River via the same pipeline that supplied the Murphy plant. Water that is not recycled is sent to their own disposal wells or to an approved third party disposal site.

During the pilot project, construction involved a maximum of 120 employees and operation a maximum of 14, with these figures increasing to 350 employees for construction and 50 for operation of Phase One and 400 for construction and 90 for operation of Phase Two.

Construction of a pipeline for transportation of sales oil and diluent is also in the planning stage for early 2015.

- June is Brain Injury Awareness Month in Canada. There have been many stories about brain injuries in sports and motor vehicle crashes that result in life-long disabilities. The Brain Injury Association of Canada is dedicated to improving the quality of life for all Canadians affected by acquired brain injury and promoting its prevention. If you would like to donate, go online to CanadaHelps.org
- Brachytherapy is a method of treating prostate cancer by placing tiny radioactive pellets near or in the tumour. Now this method of treatment is being used in women with breast cancer as an alternative to external radiation treatment. It's a "radiation from within" method that is used after surgical removal of a tumour and results in less recurrence of the cancer.
- The substance called "agar" is a derivative of seaweed and was first used in culturing bacteria back in the 1880s and is still used today for the same purpose.
- Perhaps one of the most common causes of constipation is not heeding the urge to go. We lead such busy lives that we sometimes ignore what our bodies are telling us. Not a good idea. If you have to strain or have hard stools at least 25% of the time or if you have fewer than three bowel movements per week, you may have constipation.

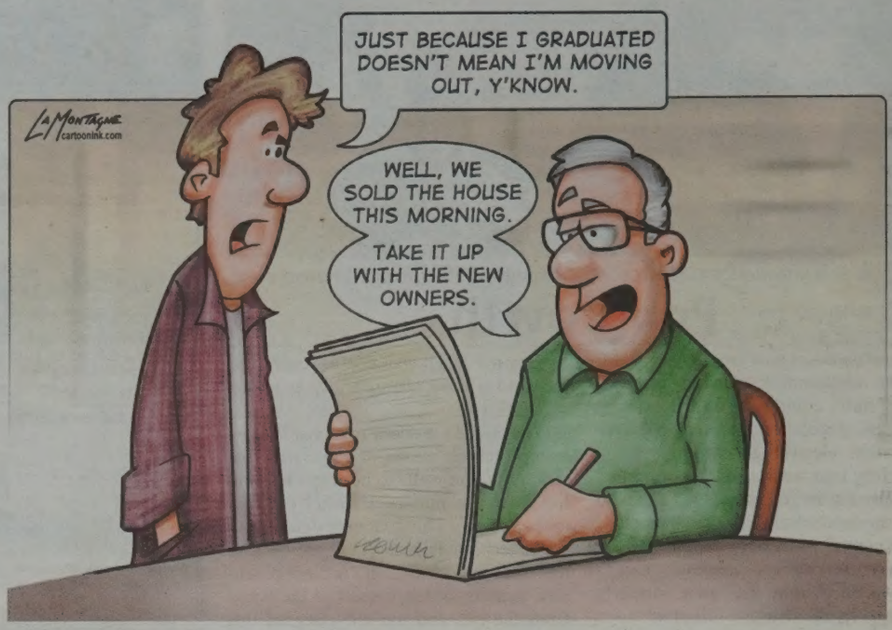
Saluting seniors

It's Seniors' Week, and once again the focus is on our community's senior citizens. Once known for the large percentage of retirees in our population, our demographics have changed considerably over the years, but the seniors still play an extremely vital role, from serving on boards and in organizations to running Elk Point's only remaining bingo.

Have a great week, seniors! You're the best!



Way Back When...

Impact assessment, incredible price

Here's the news that made the front pages of the Lakeland Review and the Elk Point Review for the week of June 3 in...

1984

Town council ratified the appointment of a 14-member Community Impact Assessment Study Steering Committee, which included a wide cross section of community residents as well as representatives of the Northern Alberta Development Committee and the Municipal Planning Branch. All involved escaped uninjured from a three-vehicle crash on Elk Point Bridge destroyed a car, a winged cultivator and the tractor of a semi-trailer hauling crude oil.

1989

A very happy first-year 4-H member David Naber showed the Inter-Club Grand Champion steer at the St. Paul District 4-H Show and Sale, later selling his animal, named Elk Point 4-H's Reserve Champion a week earlier, for "the incredible price of $2.20 per pound." The Town of Elk Point's budget was brought down, with taxes going up due to a sizeable jump in requisitions for school, hospital district, planning board and M/ D. of St. Paul Foundation.

1994

Vegreville – Viking MLA Ed Stelmach officiated at the long-awaited official opening of Parkview Extended Care after what Elk Point Hospital Board vice-chair Marvin Bjornstad described as "a history of politics, bureaucracy and long waits."

1999

Van Horne Oil and Gas Ltd. met with the Elk Point Regional Cultural Society and the Town of Elk Point, the two groups each interested in obtaining the former Pan Canadian Petroleum building, with MLA Ray Danyluk on hand to referee the discussions.

2004

Mayor Lyle Frisby proclaimed June as "Shop Locally Month" in Elk Point, with representatives of the chamber of commerce, local media and Canadian Natural Resources on hand for the kick-off.

2009

Darren Tymofichuk showed the Grand Champion steer at Elk Point 4-H Multi Club's Achievement Day, with Alanna Ockerman showing the Reserve Champion, and Canine, Horse, Crafts and Small Engines project members also displaying their achievements. Elk Point Oilmen's Association celebrated "25 years, three months and 10 days since a group of guys in the patch got together and decided to incorporate an organization" said president Don Mudryk as he welcomed present members and many former members to enjoy a day of golf, a banquet and dance.

Bridge catastrophe dominates

ELK POINT HISTORICAL SOCIETY
Review Contributors

Quite a few applications" had been received for Elk Point's almost-completed seniors' residence, Fort George Manor, by early July, 1981, town council was told by Coun. Ed Pankiw, who was part of the management board for both the new facility and Buckingham House. The new 12-unit residence differed from Buckingham House in that bedrooms were larger, there were no patios and less recreation room.

An interim decision by the Energy Resources Conservation Board (ERCB) made everybody happy. The board agreed to reserve their decision on some of the developments in the Lindbergh oilfield, after they were impressed by a well-organized presentation by the Elk Point Surface Rights Association which offered solutions as well as problems. The interim decision would give farmers some input into where wells would be drilled, but would still allow oil companies to use the 40-acre spacing necessary to tap the heavy crude oil in the Lindbergh field.

The Lions Club parade brought colour and excitement to Elk Point streets as part Rendezvous Days, an event which included a casino, beer gardens and entertainment and which was held in conjunction with Whitney Lakes Rodeo. Crown Amusements midway had been planned as part of the fun but cancelled at the last moment, leaving the organizing committee totally unamused, but the 3,000 – plus attendance at the rodeo helped to cheer them up.

Conflict arose after the newly-arrived Lakeland Ambulance Service was bypassed for two of three hospital transfers to Edmonton, with Dr. Frank Estey telling the newcomers they would have to prove their ability, as the patient's welfare must come first.

Elk Point Bridge suffered serious damage when a crude oil tanker lost control on the sharp turn at the north end of the bridge, flipped on its side and skidded almost halfway across the bridge before bursting into flame and sending blazing crude oil cascading into the North Saskatchewan River. While the driver escaped with only minor injuries, the bridge suffered such severe damage that early estimates said it would be out of service for at least three months.

August

There was good news and bad news regarding Elk Point's damaged bridge, with pedestrian traffic allowed to cross it "with certain stipulations" and the possibility that a ferry service could be operating before school opened in September. However, the ferry would be "light-duty only," with no semi trailers or grain trucks allowed, which would make life difficult for local farmers in harvest time.

A man who operated a crane when the Elk Point Bridge was constructed in 1949-50 was back in town, this time to operate the 48-foot ferry that would replace the damaged bridge while repairs were being made.

The ferry started out in fine style on a Saturday afternoon, but nearly sunk half way across the river two days later, when it was unevenly loaded with two pickups and a bulk fuel truck and started to take on water. However, all vehicles were safely unloaded, and a lesson learned. School buses using the ferry would be taken across one at a time, in the middle of the ferry, to prevent another incident of this type.

Elk Point's newly completed tourist booth opened on Aug. 20, presumably "better late than never."

September

Bill 25, an amendment to the County Act, encountered strong opposition from town council and school board representative Bill Ballas when it was discovered to give county councils the sole authority to appoint all education employees, and effectively remove the town's vote on educational finance matters.

The chamber of commerce was concerned by the lack of interest when only 13 members showed up for the fall's first meeting, and one of those members reported that workers repairing the bridge have complained about prices and services in town .

The bridge was opened to traffic on a temporary basis, and would later be closed from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily to allow more repairs to be done.

The province wanted to locate Elk Point's proposed new airport on Cameron Isert's land east of Elk Point, the Airport Commission wanted it where the present one was, near the golf course, and the chamber of commerce said the location was of secondary importance to getting a new airport, wherever it might be.

Liberal leader Nick Taylor said the ERCB was "not worth a damn" at protecting the environment from the oil industry and that the province was "gleaning money that should come to farmers," when he met with the Elk Point Surface Rights Association.

EMS cooks to support Victim Services

Prairie Emergency Medical Services marked Canadian EMS Week with a charity barbecue at the Iron Horse Trail staging area gazebo last Wednesday, with excellent response from the community yielding $700.90 to support Elk Point Victim Services, an amount Mark Moebis says is close to double last year. A donation of the bulk of the burgers by Elk Point Co-op helped to swell the donation to this worthy cause. Hungry diners arrived by ATV, vehicles and on foot to enjoy the hearty burgers the served up.

Elk Point's Victim Services coordinator Dawn Lavallee (centre) was on hand to help the EMS staff to serve a lengthy lineup of diners, which included everyone from office workers to oil industry personnel to RCMP members.

Two weeks left before Idol deadline

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Elk Point's Canada Day Idol is back for another year, and there are still two weeks for performers to enter the July 1 singing competition.

Last year, it was Olivia Rose Leaf's turn in the Canada Day Idol spotlight. Will you be this year's competition winner?.

Idol organizer Dee Pankiw says she will accept the first 20 paid entries from non-professional, amateur Canadian singers between the ages of 10 and 30 years, who may perform as individuals or in groups of up to three, with entrants also able to perform a maximum of twice, once as an individual and once as part of a group.

Contestants may perform to live, taped or digital music, with live accompaniment from a maximum of three musicians, who do not have to conform to the age restrictions. No backup band is provided. All acts must be under four minutes in length. Contestants will be judged 75 per cent on voice and 25 per cent on performance.

Entrants will be divided into junior, for age 14 and under, and senior categories for judging. The senior winner will receive five hours of recording studio time, along with 20 copies of the resulting CD, a supply of business cards and letterheads and a presentation folder.

The junior winner will receive two hours of recording time and the junior runner up a clothing gift certificate. And that's not all - the top performance by a junior competitor will win the brand new B & R Eckels Shooting Star Award, and Pankiw says there are "some extra prizes" as well.

Ball season in full swing, teams re-tiered

doug BASSETT
Review Sports

House league and provincial round robins are full steam ahead so there's no lack of baseball now to tell you about, the season getting into full swing when both our provincial teams played last weekend and this past week in the house league.

The Bantam Sox played a grueling four games on the May 24 and 25 weekend in Sherwood Park on Saturday and at South Jasper Place on Sunday, playing all top tier one teams in the city, the South Jasper Place Jays, the Fort Saskatchewan Red Sox, the Edmonton North Stars and the Sherwood Park Athletics. But the good news is they have now been re-tiered as of this past Friday and the Sox won't meet these teams again.

Even though they lost all four games, the team did manage some decent plays and some hits. Nick "KKK" Tucker with six singles for the weekend, the "Big Red Machine" Mathew Nahirniak with four singles, "Taylor Made" Pankiw with two singles and a double, her brother the peewee-aged Dustyn "Dust Pan" Pankiw with a couple of singles, "Awesome Alex' Hunter tapping two singles, Christian "CCW" Castle – Wasson with a single, and the Vermilion products Kyler Carlson with a double, Denver Budzilka with three singles and a double. This coming weekend, the Bantam Sox will travel to Spruce Grove and face some easier competition.

As for the Peewee Sox, they had a little easier run for the money. They played only three games in two days in North East Edmonton, winning one over Fort Saskatchewan No. 2 team and losing two games by the ten-run mercy rule against the North East North Stars and the Fort Saskatchewan No.1 team.

But there was nothing wrong with the bats, they seemed to be working OK. Brayden "Magnet " Fairbairn with three doubles and five singles, his brother the "Babe" with a in-the-park home run and single and two RBIs, Corbin "Crusher" Ockerman with a double and two singles, Colton McLean with four singles, rookie Ty Smereka smacking three singles, Kaiden "K Rock" Evans –Anderson with three doubles, Grady Frazer with a two bagger, Landon Vasseur with a triple and two doubles, Graham Broda banging a triple and two singles and Dalton Reed with two singles. The Peewee Sox have also been re-tiered and will host this coming weekend at home with three other teams coming to the ball park in the Point!

In League play this past week, second baseman Hunter Nelson was like a vacuum cleaner sucking up the grounders, making three awesome plays for the outs. Angus McFarlane with some nice pitching in the first inning and with a single making it all the way around the bases to home on some throwing errors in the bottom of the fourth. The Sox winning in the bottom of the fourth after being down by five runs when the call up from the Mosquitoes Matthew Quinney singled to drive in the winning runs.

Now for the K.A. Campbell quote of the week. "Work? I never worked a day in my life. I always loved what I was doing, had a passion for it." Last week's answer to: "Baseball, it is said, is only a game. True. And the Grand Canyon is only a hole in Arizona. Not all holes, or games, are created equal."- George Will.

Zones track sees strong local performances

RYAN MCCRACKEN
Review Contributor

St. Paul Regional High School hosted the Alberta School Athletic Association zone finals last Wednesday, picking up the 3A banner while Glendon School took home the 1A banner.

"This is the 12th year in a row that we've won the 3A zones, and the total competition outscoring everybody," said St. Paul Regional Athletic Director Hank Smid, adding 14 Regional athletes will compete at provincials. "We're very happy with the result of the competition. The kids who put in the time generally are rewarded with the outcome that they want . . . For the most part they're rewarded and moving on, and a couple of them kind of got in there a little easier than others. But now they go to the big show and see if they can compete amongst the big dogs."

Glendon Athletic Director Daryn Galatiuk said he was also impressed with the performances put forth by his athletes, adding he is confident at the school's chances to take the 1A banner at provincials in Calgary on XX.

"Every year that we've won it for the last four years, I do calculations beforehand . . . usually you need 14-15 events and above to have a good shot at it. With us, with 20 right now, we have a good shot but it's hard to tell what some other schools are doing out there," said Galatiuk. "We're feeling good, but it's if the kids perform on those two days."

Galatiuk added there is a "mutual respect" between Glendon and St. Paul Regional, and that both sides will be cheering on the other in Calgary this week.

"It's kind of a mutual respect. He's got some runners over there that are fantastic this year that could be medalists in their events. We always root for each other, so we're glad that our district kind of dominated that zone meet," he said. "The kids know each other quite well after competing against each other for almost six years, some of them. There's actually very nice camaraderie amongst the kids in our district."

Last Wednesday's zone finals afternoon also a strong individual performance from École Mallaig School's Mienna Starosielski, who took gold in all four of her events; long jump, the 400 metre run, the 800 metre run, and the 4x400 metre open relay.

"I was fairly confident that I would make it to Provincials in at least one event but was absolutely thrilled and surprised at the end of the day when I took home four gold medals," said Starosielksi. "Without the training I've received from the club's coaches I wouldn't have had such a great outcome at Zones. I also appreciate all of the additional conditioning that I've been able obtain from my Sports Performance class at Mallaig."

Starosielski added she is looking forward to competing at provincials, and hopes to continue improving on her personal bests.

"My hope is to be within a top ten finish in some of my events. I also just want to enjoy the atmosphere of being there at provincials and enjoy the high skill level of those competing there. My dad competed at provincials when he was in high school and won gold in triple jump and that has always inspired me," she said. "Ultimately I hope to just keep improving on my personal bests in all of my events and to just to continue to improve overall. I wish all of the other athletes from our division good luck and I'm looking forward to this great experience."

Curb-to-curb automotive excellence was on display Saturday in downtown Elk Point, with cars, trucks and motorcycles from vintage to brand new all lined up and shined up for the pleasure of a large crowd of spectators that enjoyed the best Show and Shine weather the event has enjoyed in several years.

Half a hundred collector cars, trucks and motorcycles lined Elk Point's Main Street on Saturday, with near-perfect weather bringing out excellent crowds for the Elk Point Auto Club's annual Show and Shine.

Viewers didn't just admire, reminisce, visit, check out sidewalk sales and a marvelous display of antique toy vehicles, and enjoy the first ice cream cones of spring, they also chose their favourite vehicles in each of nine categories, which would have been 10, if any tractors had been on show. By the show's conclusion at 4 p.m., all those votes had been counted up, and exhibitors and fans alike gathered to hear the winners announced.

EPAC president Ed Smith said he was quite surprised to discover that the People's Choice at the Auto Club show was going to a motorcycle, and called Cliff Drolet forward to accept the Magic Pizza plaque for his 2011 Custom Bobber. That same shiny ride also claimed the Sheldon Cochrane Memorial trophy in the Motorcycle category, with Billy Harrison's 2013 Harley placing second for the Harold Lefebvre trophy.

In the Modified category, Donovan Boyko of Bonnyville placed first for the Bill Curry Memorial plaque with his 1968 Chevy Nova, second place and the Signatures Collision plaque going to Dan Marchuk of Wainwright and his flame-decked 1947 Mercury coupe.

George Hahn took home the Shamrock Valley Enterprises plaque in the Post '60 Antiques with his 1972 Corvette Stingray, with second prize going to the next car down the line, Robert Dell's 1962 Studebaker Hawk.

Hahn also picked up a second place trophy, sponsored by Coldwell Banker, in the Show category, for his '09 Shelby Super Snake. Ronald Bohn of Lloydminster won that category and the Knotty Boyz trophy with his 1956 Chevy hardtop.

First place in the Antique category, and the EPAC trophy, went to Murry Nielsen's showroom condition 1926 Model T, David Nestorowich claiming his first of two second place trophies, this one sponsored by Mystery Man Auto Parts, for his 1931 Ford Model A. He was back up a few minutes later, after Don Anderson accepted the Gil Garner Memorial plaque in the Convertible class for his 1968 Dodge, Nestorowich taking the Elk Point Insurance trophy for his 1964 Ford Falcon.

Brian Samuels of Cold Lake excelled in the Truck class, with his 1950 Ford earning him the Bumper to Bumper trophy, while Harvey Derewynka claimed second place and the Rangeland Energy Savers trophy with his 1955 Chevy.

The Elk Point Burger Bar trophy for the furthest away entry went to a 2006 Mustang owned by TJ Marchuk of Wainwright, while the Oldest Vehicle, winning the Complete Excavation Services trophy, was a 1923 Ford proudly displayed by Colby Isert of Dewberry.

The Ed Nelson Memorial trophy for a Work In Progress went to a 1953 International R110 shown by B. Letawsky of Vermilion.

Several exhibitors also qualified for door prizes, and ticket holders anxiously awaited the draws for donated prizes of model vehicles, a solar garden decoration and a pressure washer.

Showy and then some!

\Dan Marchuk brought this flame-decked 1947 Mercury coupe all the way from Wainwright for the show, the super-showy vehicle placing second in the Modified class for the Signatures Collision and Frame trophy.

Local beauties

Harvey Derewynka's bright orange 1955 Chev half-ton lined up with David Nestorowich's 1931 Model A, 1964 Ford Falcon and 1965 Dodge Monaco.

What looks like a junkyard reject today is likely to be a showpiece in the future. Many collector vehicles start out like this battle-scarred tow truck and end up in immaculate condition a few years later.

What a deal!

Henri Amyotte of Mallaig added the original bill of sale and receipt for payment to his display of a 1951 IHC half ton, which amazingly cost only $1,889 brand new. Times have changed!

Doing what's best for our children.

Alberta's students are among the best in the world. To keep it that way, quality teaching is critical. Our teachers are dealing with significant challenges like new technology and curriculum, diverse student needs – and too many young teachers are leaving the profession. At the same time, Albertans want more accountability for what students are accomplishing in school.

'Doing what's best for our children.' That was the direction I gave last year when I formed the independent blue-ribbon Task Force on Teaching Excellence. This dedicated group of educators, school leaders, educational consultants and community leaders used their combined knowledge and experience to make recommendations to achieve continuous improvement in teaching excellence.

Task Force membership includes:

- Chair Dr. Glenn Feltham – President and CEO of NAIT with an extensive academic and professional background
- Vice Chair Sandra Jansen – Associate Minister of Family and Community Safety, MLA for Calgary-North West
- Naresh Bhardwaj – Associate Minister of Services for Persons with Disabilities, MLA for Edmonton-Ellerslie and former teacher
- David Dorward – MLA for Edmonton-Gold Bar, Chartered Accountant and Certified Management Accountant
- David Fraser – Executive Director of Corporate Services with Edmonton Public Schools with more than 30 years of human resources experience
- Dr. Sharon Friesen – Vice Dean and Associate Dean of Professional and Community Engagement in the Werklund School of Education at the University of Calgary, recipient of a Prime Minister's Award for Teaching Excellence
- Dr. Irene Lewis – a former teacher and the President Emeritus of SAIT Polytechnic, named one of Canada's Top 100 Most Powerful Women 2010/2012
- Dr. Craig Loewen – Dean of Education at the University of Lethbridge, recipient of ATA's Educational Research Award
- Mackenzie Martin – a University of Alberta education student, former representative on the Alberta Education Minister's Student Advisory Committee, recipient of the TD scholarship for Community Leadership
- Everett McDonald – MLA for Grande Prairie-Smoky, former reeve, former trustee
- Brent McDonough – former teacher serving as an advisor to the Masters in Educational Studies Program at the University of Alberta, co-chair of Inspiring Education Steering Committee, former chair Edmonton Public Library, former member U of A Senate
- Michele Mulder – Executive Director of the Alberta School Councils Association, former president of the Alberta School Boards Association
- Andy Neigel – President and CEO of Careers: The Next Generation, has taught at NAIT and the University of Alberta
- Shelley Ralston – National Director of Talent and Culture for a Fortune 500 company, Chair of the Red Deer College Board of Directors, recipient of the Women of Excellence Award 2008
- Laurie Thompson – a current teacher and ATA member, principal at Kikino School – recognized as one of the top 25 Schools in Canada in Today's Parent magazine
- Ron Young – a current teacher, principal and ATA member with more than 30 years of experience

After hearing from 3,000 Albertans, their report is in. Some of their recommendations include:

- Increasing the time available to teachers for preparation and collaboration
- Internships and reduced workload for first year teachers
- Adopting a formal mentorship program to provide more support for beginner teachers, as well as new school and district leaders
- Improving evaluation process for teachers and the professional growth plan process
- Requiring teachers to maintain certification, with evaluations conducted – with the purpose of demonstrating professional growth and continual evidence of performance – every five years
- Increasing access teachers have to technology and specialized supports and services
- Requiring new school leaders to complete a leadership program
- At education faculties, increasing the amount of current practicum requirements to provide student teachers with more classroom experience before they graduate
- Requiring post-secondary institutions to look beyond grades to suitability when admitting education faculty applicants
- Increasing transparency and effectiveness of process for complaints of teacher competence or unprofessional conduct – the Task Force report does not recommend splitting the ATA into a college and a union, it prefers the government to work with the ATA to resolve the current issues
- Increasing empowerment for principals to deal with teachers that need to improve their skills – the Task Force report does not recommend removing principals from the ATA, it prefers the government to work with the ATA to resolve the current issues

Your government won't make any decisions without hearing from parents, teachers and everyone who cares about our children's education. It's your turn to have a say.

Iron Horse Mini sees plenty of local activity

RYAN MCCRACKEN
Review Contributor

Forty-five runners stepped onto the Iron Horse Trail for the Iron Horse Mini, a 32 km run aimed at raising interest for the Iron Horse Ultra 100 in the fall while kicking off the annual outdoor running season.

"We're just trying to get a lot of different people in to start the season and get people aware that we have our Ultra coming up in October . . . We've talked to a few people today and they think it's a friendly race and they're telling us it's well run," she said, adding that 35 of the runners are from the St. Paul and Elk Point areas. "If they start now and they're looking at their running training, I think they usually have about 16 weeks to build up to an ultra, or half an ultra, or whatever their goal is. So if they catch the bug by doing one piece of it, or half of it of 32 km, then they might consider doing a leg of the ultra, which is anywhere from 17 to 30 km."

Elk Point's Dave McNamara was the only local competitor to take on the Iron Horse Mini as a soloist, but he wasn't alone when he reached the home stretch, as his son Heath ran out to meet him and jogged him in the rest of the way.

"It was awesome, it was a really great feeling," he said, adding that finishing the race alongside his son was the best part of the day. "That's a big accomplishment for me."

McNamara added he has been a member of relay teams for the Iron Horse Ultra 100 in the past, and runs on a regular basis in the hopes of gradually increasing the distance he can cover.

"This is the longest I've ever run," he said, adding the weather was pretty good for the long trek down the Iron Horse Trail. "It was pretty warm but it wasn't too bad. Every now and then there was a cloud and some wind so it wasn't too bad. Better than the cold."

The race also saw a team of junior high school students from Elk Point and Vermilion take on the trek. Garret Kinaschuk started off the day for the Young Runs team while Courtney Bielech, MacKenzie Evans and Tessa Pindroch ran their portions of the relay wearing bright pink tutus.

"It was a good temperature," said Kinaschuk, who opted not to run in a tutu. "I'd rather run in the morning because it's not so hot."

Spruce Grove's Angelica Arar made the trip out to St. Paul to take on the Iron Horse Mini, an event she found when researching the Iron Horse Ultra 100.

"I'm actually somewhat of a newer runner, I only started about a year and a half ago . . . I have hopes to do the 100 in the fall," she said. "I was online looking for distances longer than marathons and I came across (the Iron Horse Ultra 100). It's not in the mountains or anything so it looks like a good first one."

Arar added she was taken back by the scenery along the trail, and even had to stop to take in the sights from time to time.

"It was awesome, I'd love to do it again," she said. "It's just beautiful out here. I stopped a couple of times just to kind of look around."

Summer Reading Program returns

ELK POINT LIBRARY
Review Contributor

Elk Point Municipal Library is yet again hosting another fabulous summer full of crafts, activities and games with the Summer Reading Program. This year's theme is "Eureka!" The kids will learn to invent, create, tinker and innovate. With books and stories and ideas as their inspiration, they can fly and fall and fly again.

With the large number of kids that joined last year, this year we will be setting up a pre-registration so our staff can make this year's program better than any other. This registration starts NOW down at the library. We welcome any kids from kindergarten to grade six to join us starting on July 3rd.

Every year, a special entertainer is part of the summer program, and this year we're starting early. On July 2nd at 2:00 p.m., the Elk Point Municipal Library is having an entertainer by the name of Mary Lambert come and present "Making Music" for us.

For any further information about Mary Lambert you can go to her website: www.marylambertmusic.com and for any questions or concerns about the Summer Reading Program you can call or drop by the library. We hope to see you all there!

Library Tea

The June Library Tea is scheduled for Tuesday, June 10 at 2 p.m. Join us as we wrap up the season before we take a summer break from the teapots!

Drobots celebrate 100 years of family farm

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

One hundred years and two days after 23-year-old Ukrainian immigrant Mike Drobot filed the necessary paperwork to homestead a hilly quarter section of land just west of Stoney Lake, his descendants joined with family and friends to celebrate the 100th anniversary of that family farm.

The panes of time-weathered windows framed long-ago pictures of Drobot's family back in the Ukraine and of decades of progress in his new homeland in a display that also included homestead tools of long ago and a formal portrait of Drobot as a young man. Nearby was a carefully restored, one-bottom walking plow that broke the homestead's sod, acre by slow acre.

Mike's son Steve told the story of how the homestead came to be. In the late 1800s, surveyor and geologist John Palliser explored the treeless land in what is now Saskatchewan and Alberta that later became known as the Palliser Triangle. Some years later, Canada's Minister of the Interior, Clifford Sifton, decided that the Palliser Triangle land should be surveyed into homesteads for the people of eastern and western Europe and the Ukraine. The Ukrainians were known to be able to make a living on the three- or four-acre farms in their homeland, and he felt they would do equally well as homesteaders.

Mike Drobot, a 16-year-old from Bukovinia, saw the advertisements for these homesteads and talked to the agents that traveled to the Ukraine to promote this opportunity. Soon he had embarked on a 14-day sea voyage on a former cattle ship that brought him to Canada. He traveled by train to Winnipeg and stayed with his uncle there, finding a job as a water boy on a railway crew, working his way up to the construction crew, a section gang and finally to working in the roundhouse in Vermilion. After seven years working on the railroad, he and co-worker Nick Zayac headed north to find homesteads.

Mike filed on the NW 10-56-8-W4 on May 29, 1914. The next spring, he married Sophia Topolnisky, and they raised six children, sadly losing one of them before Mike lost his wife as well. Mike married again, this time to Rosie Yakimowich, and they added two more children to the family.

Over the years, Mike added more land to the homestead, breaking 300 acres with horse-drawn equipment before he bought his first tractor in 1948.

"Hard work never hurt him," Steve said, "and he smoked all his life. He lived on the homestead until four days before he died in Sept. 1983 at the age of 92. He was a law abiding man, honest, and he always helped his neighbours."

MLA Shayne Saskiw attended the celebration and presented a commemorative plaque from the province to Orest and Florence Drobot, who now farm the homestead that has been in the Drobot family since 1914. "The Drobots are a very honourable family, known for their hard work and dedication," he said in making the presentation.

Orest and Florence also received another tribute: a wrought iron gate sign, presented by their three children, Faye (Poitras), Kevin and Duane. (below)

MLA Shayne Saskiw presents Florence and Orest Drobot with a plaque honouring the Drobot family's 100 years on the homestead farm.

Homesteader Mike Drobot's son Steve relates the family history in the Stoney Lake area.
